Intuition, Guidance, the Voice of Wisdom

by John Price

Each one of us should avail ourselves of the Pool of Light, the Well of Wisdom that guides us via the inner voice in our awakened state, through sudden intuitive flashes, and in our dreams. We simply have to be aware that at every moment in time and space we are directed along life's path. And the greater our ability to listen and follow through with appropriate action, the greater is the activity of divine order in all aspects of life. Think, feel, know...

I am consciously aware that the wisdom of my Holy Self is right now flowing into my mind and feeling nature, shining its light before me. I see what to do, and the voice within speaks. I listen. I hear, and do that which is mine to do.

As we work with such affirmative statements and meditate on our oneness with Spirit, we become a clear channel for Divine Wisdom. I'll share some personal examples of inner instructions, and suggest you make a list of your own experiences of guidance. This could be important in opening to a greater now-sense of advice and counsel.

I had a dream recently and heard a voice say, "The car is out of oil." The next morning I checked both our vehicles and Jan's car barely registered any oil. Action taken.

Other dreams over the years have been wonderfully instructive: the guidance to leave the corporate world and begin a career in spiritual communications, the "love more" dream to move out of a hole of scarcity, and the dreams concerning the return of our dogs from beyond the veil--giving us the date, place and other pertinent information..

Guidance has also come forth during times of busy day-time activities: the voice in the mid-nineties telling me that Jan and I must not leave on a trip to Mexico. I brushed it off as just an ego-desire to not take a vacation while I was writing a new book. That's when I heard, "If you go you will not come back." We cancelled our plane reservations.

On a less serious note, we were having our two solar-powered front gates repaired, one at each end of our circular driveway. The man said, "It's done. Both gates work fine." I was walking back to the house when I heard the inner voice speak: "The one on the left still doesn't work." I turned around and hollered at the man getting into his truck. I pointed to the gate and said, "Check that one out again...just make sure." He did. It wouldn't open. He fixed it. Oh how I love that inner Knowingness.

POINTS TO REMEMBER

1. You are never alone. You have a constant Guide, Companion and Comforter with you at all times.

2. The more time you spend in loving, contemplative meditation dwelling on the Spirit of you, the more active and louder the "still, small voice" will be.

3. The more you are consciously aware of the Spirit in yourself and others, the stronger your guidance for right action will be.

4. The greater your realization of Spirit, the less guidance you will seek, for Spirit will be fulfilling itself through you, as you, without you taking thought.

A MEDITATION

I am poised and powerful in the Presence of God.

My emotional nature is quiet, my mind is still, and I am one with my All-Knowing Self.

Detached from this world, impersonal to illusion, I am totally open to the Divine Revelations from above.

From the radiance illuminating my mind I see only Reality.

From the celestial note issuing forth from the Highest Realm of my being, I hear only Harmony.

From the stream of crystal clear essence pouring into my consciousness from on High, I know only the Truth.

From the pure Light of Intuition I know the Way.

I am now able to take direct and correct action.

I know what to do, how to do it, and when.

I am a Divine Knower.

I watch. I listen. I wait.

I see. I hear. I know.

I now move forward to accomplish that which is mine to do.

"Wisdom is the understanding of the source or cause of all things."--Pythagoras

INSTANT OBEDIENCE

by Walter Starcke

As usual I was in complete agreement with everything John said in the August Quartus Report. (The article "Resist Not") We create our own reality by our practice of the positive principles he outlined.

When I read the article it took me back many years to one of the most important turning points of my life. At that time I was wrestling with practicing the same principles John put forth, but it was hit and miss. Sometimes I could and at other I unwittingly screwed up. In desperation I called on my higher divine consciousness for the reason. It said, "You haven't learned instant obedience." Instant obedience! What's that?

We are all "think-a-holics." If we swallow the first negative thought and let it lead to another, on and on we go until we are spiritually drunk, and the only thing we can do is to wait until we sober up. Then we have to deal with our spiritual hangover.

To practice instant obedience is to stop the first negative or spiritually poisonous thought dead in its tracks and refuse to continue on that path with no excuses.

As I began to observe instant obedience my life began to transform in amazing ways, but I still faced a major stumbling block. There was always some logic in the negative thoughts. That's how they trick us, and sooner or later we have to deal with that logic. The answer is for us to deal with it on our own terms, not its. By that I mean, when a negative thought comes to mind we can literally say, "Alright, I will get back to you, but not out of the current emotion. I will get back to you when I am centered and my spirit is in control."

Now, years passed, and I finally realized that coming to this realization was the most important thing I had ever done. You see, our minds are wonderful instruments there for our use, but until we gain control of them, instead of using our minds we are used by them. When I learned instant obedience at last, I controlled my mind and not it me.

Since that time nothing has taken me more than a day to get on top of it, and most often not that long. When we can instantly obey the law of love, from then on our lives are lived out of our higher consciousness, and that means out of the law of love.

I CREATE MY WORLD

by Rev. Pamela A. McFarlane

Conclusion, continued from the August and September 2007 Quartus Reports. This article appeared in the Winter 2006 issue of GIST Magazine, reprinted with permission.

THE JOURNEY

Through meditation I become cognizant of the infinite power and wisdom available to me; my thoughts are aware of the truth as I dwell on the truth. I quietly focus my thoughts on my desire to know the I am that I am within, which is responsive to my every thought.

Meditation brings me back to the awareness of my oneness as god. In this meditated state my thoughts are in unity with god, therefore whatever I bind is bound, whatsoever I loose is loosed, and whatsoever I claim is established.

I decide that I am independently wealthy. This statement perplexed me for a while. The literal meaning seemed very selfish. So therefore I knew there is a deeper truth in this statement. To be independent means to rely on no one, to stand on your own. I am independently wealthy because I am god, and as god my wealth is dependent on no one but me. I am the source of my supply. All that I desire I have, and all my desires are abundantly met.

I am my own shepherd, and I shall not want, for I lead myself onto paths of good at all times.

In the state of meditation I am aware of my oneness as god, manifested as perfect health and prosperity in my body and affairs.

MY WORLD

This is fun! The ability to live in the powerful thoughts, words and demonstrations I create is beyond fun...it is exhilarating.

I am given a blank check from the Divine Bank to fill in whatever amount I fancy. What fun! How glorious! I immediately go to work creating my world.

Thirty-eight years ago I invited my wonderful husband into my world, and together we brought forth our beautiful daughter, grandsons, and son-in-law. This is work of my divine self, who knew what it desired and what it takes to construct my world. I create my parents, my siblings and all others in my world, so that in oneness we fulfill the divine plan for a blissful life.

Knowing this, I awake every day in joyous anticipation and expectation of a day filled with loving, harmonious, peaceful and pleasant occurrences.

Wherever I go I create an atmosphere of love and peace. Each day I determine the outcome of my day by the thoughts I set in motion, followed by the corresponding actions I demonstrate. I am responsible for the world I live in and for the experiences I encounter. At work, home or play, I create the outcome, and I choose the kind of day I desire to have.

I saturate my consciousness with pure thoughts. This guarantees that all my interactions and relations are lovely and successful. As I express from my pure consciousness I see everyone in my world expressing from their pure consciousness as well. This computes to a world of joy and eternal happiness.

A pure heart sees only purity...to the pure all is pure. My world is my creation. I custom-made my world to my spiritual specifications. I design my world in accordance with my true identity, Spirit!

CONCLUSION

I live from the center of my beingness, my god-self. My awareness of my divinity propels me to think thoughts and speak words that are reflective of who I am, making my journey smooth and my pathway illumined with pearls of good and glistening with emeralds of joy.

I am eternally grateful for the awareness that I create all that I am experiencing, and as such I have the power and the know- ingness how to change whatever does not serve me well. This journey is truly enjoyable and satisfying. To know that I am responsible for all that I am places the onus on me, leaving no room for excuses. This is all made easy when I remind myself of my divinity. I am god, god I am. I constantly keep my thoughts on god and good.

I look at my world and I am happy with what I have created. I look at all in my world and I am convinced that I am The Master Builder. My thoughts, words and actions are the tools with which I create my masterpieces. I look at my masterpieces, I say: Wow! I AM THE GREATEST! I AM, THEREFORE I THINK AND THERE-FORE I CREATE! Because I am god, I produce all that I am!

QUARTUS HAS A BEAUTIFUL ANGEL

In a dream that John had recently, someone handed him a magazine with a beautiful cover featuring a large Q with an angel on the tail. Laura is working on the design, and we'll use it beginning with the January 2008 Quartus Report. Isn't it wonderful that the Universe is involved with graphic design? And what a meaningful symbol!

"The guardian angels of life sometimes fly so high as to be beyond our sight, but they are always looking down upon us."--Jean Paul Richter (1763-1826), German humorist.

ACCEPTANCE

by Jan Price

From her journal dated August 31, 1997

I accept the wonderful possibilities of God's divine plan. All that I have seen darkly I bring into the Light and revel in the delightful perfection I behold.

I acknowledge those parts of myself I experience in others and love all my parts into harmony. Now I can fully enjoy all relationships, for I love myself unconditionally and everyone reflects that love back to me.

I am glad to be me and honor myself by joyfully living life to the fullest. I find pleasure in everything I do, in everyone I meet. I now allow my creative ideas to express into form and experience for the fun of it. Life's richest blessings rush to enfold me in their sweetness and I glory in the goodness, gladly accepting all that is mine--and that is everything.

My outer reflects my inner and I walk in the beauty I am.
